Introduction

Purpose

Hadden Group is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses the personal data of its workforce, and to meeting its data protection obligations. This policy sets out the Hadden Group's commitment to data protection, and individual rights and obligations in relation to personal data.

This policy applies to the personal data of job applicants, employees, contractor's volunteers, interns, apprentices and former employees, referred to as HR-related personal data. This policy does not apply to the personal data of clients or other personal data processed for business purposes.

Job applicants are encouraged to read Hadden Group's Job Applicant Privacy Notice.

Employees of Hadden Group are encouraged to read our Employee Privacy Notice.

1. Definitions

"Personal data" is any information that relates to an individual who can be identified from that information.

"Processing" is any use that is made of data, including collecting, storing, amending, disclosing or destroying it.

"Special categories of personal data" means information about an individual's racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, trade union membership, health, sex life or sexual orientation and biometric data.

"Criminal records data" means information about an individual's criminal convictions and offences, and information relating to criminal allegations and proceedings.

2. Data protection principles

Hadden Group processes HR-related personal data in accordance with the following data protection principles:

- Hadden Group processes personal data lawfully, fairly and in a transparent manner.
- Hadden Group collects personal data only for specified, explicit and legitimate purposes.
- Hadden Group processes personal data only where it is adequate, relevant and limited to what is necessary for the purposes of processing.
- Hadden Group keeps accurate personal data and takes all reasonable steps to ensure that inaccurate personal data is rectified or deleted without delay.
- Hadden Group keeps personal data only for the period necessary for processing.
- Hadden Group adopts appropriate measures to make sure that personal data is secure, and protected against unauthorised or unlawful processing, and accidental loss, destruction or damage.

Hadden Group tells individuals the reasons for processing their personal data, how it uses such data and the legal basis for processing in its privacy notices. It will not process personal data of individuals for other reasons.

Where Hadden Group processes special categories of personal data or criminal records data to perform obligations or to exercise rights in employment law, this is done in accordance with our policy on special categories of data and criminal records data.

Hadden Group will update HR-related personal data promptly if an individual advises that his/her information has changed or is inaccurate.

Personal data gathered during the employment, worker, contractor or volunteer relationship, or apprenticeship or internship is held in the individual's personnel file (in hard copy and electronic format), and on HR and Management systems. The periods for which Hadden Group holds HR-related personal data are contained in its privacy notices to individuals.

Hadden Group keeps a record of its processing activities in respect of HR-related personal data in accordance with the requirements of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

3. Individual rights

As a data subject, individuals have a number of rights in relation to their personal data.

2.1 Subject access requests

Individuals have the right to make a subject access request. If an individual makes a subject access request, Hadden Group will tell him/her:

- whether or not his/her data is processed and if so why, the categories of personal data concerned and the source of the data if it is not collected from the individual;
- to whom his/her data is or may be disclosed, including to recipients located outside the European Economic Area (EEA) and the safeguards that apply to such transfers;
- for how long his/her personal data is stored (or how that period is decided);
- his/her rights to rectification or erasure of data, or to restrict or object to processing;
- his/her right to complain to the Information Commissioner if he/she thinks Hadden Group has failed to comply with his/her data protection rights; and
- whether or not Hadden Group carries out automated decision-making and the logic involved in any such decision-making.

Hadden Group will also provide the individual with a copy of the personal data undergoing processing. This will normally be in electronic form if the individual has made a request electronically, unless he/she agrees otherwise.

If the individual wants additional copies, Hadden Group will charge a fee, which will be based on the administrative cost to Hadden Group of providing the additional copies.

To make a subject access request, the individual should complete the Subject Access Request Form located on our website and send the request to acramb@hadden.co.uk. In some cases, Hadden Group may need to ask for proof of identification before the request can be processed. Hadden Group will inform the individual if it needs to verify his/her identity and the documents it requires.

Hadden Group will normally respond to a request within a period of one month from the date it is received. In some cases, such as where Hadden Group processes large amounts of the individual's data, it may respond within three months of the date the request is received. Hadden Group will write to the individual within one month of receiving the original request to tell him/her if this is the case.

If a subject access request is manifestly unfounded or excessive, Hadden Group is not obliged to comply with it. Alternatively, Hadden Group can agree to respond but will charge a fee, which will be based on the administrative cost of responding to the request. A subject access request is likely to be manifestly unfounded or excessive where it repeats a request to which Hadden Group has already responded. If an individual submits a request that is unfounded or excessive, Hadden Group will notify him/her that this is the case and whether or not it will respond to it.

Other rights

Individuals have a number of other rights in relation to their personal data. They can require Hadden Group to:

- rectify inaccurate data;
- stop processing or erase data that is no longer necessary for the purposes of processing;
- stop processing or erase data if the individual's interests override Hadden Group's legitimate grounds for processing data (where Hadden Group relies on its legitimate interests as a reason for processing data);
- stop processing or erase data if processing is unlawful; and
- stop processing data for a period if data is inaccurate or if there is a dispute about whether or not the individual's interests override Hadden Group's legitimate grounds for processing data.

To ask Hadden Group to take any of these steps, the individual should send the request to acramb@live.co.uk.

4. Data security

Hadden Group takes the security of HR-related personal data seriously. Hadden Group has internal policies and controls in place to protect personal data against loss, accidental destruction, misuse or disclosure, and to ensure that data is not accessed, except by employees in the proper performance of their duties.

Where Hadden Group engages third parties to process personal data on its behalf, such parties do so on the basis of written instructions, are under a duty of confidentiality and are obliged to implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure the security of data.

Special Categories of Data

Hadden Group will only Process Special Categories of Data (also known as sensitive data) where the Data Subject expressly consents to such Processing or where one of the following conditions apply:

- The Processing relates to Personal Data which has already been made public by the Data Subject.

- The Processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.
- The Processing is specifically authorised or required by law.
- The Processing is necessary to protect the vital interests of the Data Subject or of another natural person where the Data Subject is physically or legally incapable of giving consent
- Further conditions, including limitations, based upon national law related to the Processing of genetic data, biometric data or data concerning health.

5. Impact assessments

Some of the processing that Hadden Group carries out may result in risks to privacy. Where processing would result in a high risk to individual's rights and freedoms, Hadden Group will carry out a data protection impact assessment to determine the necessity and proportionality of processing. This will include considering the purposes for which the activity is carried out, the risks for individuals and the measures that can be put in place to mitigate those risks.

6. Data breaches

If Hadden Group discovers that there has been a breach of HR-related personal data that poses a risk to the rights and freedoms of individuals, it will report it to the Information Commissioner within 72 hours of discovery. Hadden Group will record all data breaches regardless of their effect.

If the breach is likely to result in a high risk to the rights and freedoms of individuals, it will tell affected individuals that there has been a breach and provide them with information about its likely consequences and the mitigation measures it has taken.

7. International data transfers

Hadden Group will not transfer HR-related personal data to countries outside the EEA.

8. Individual responsibilities

Individuals are responsible for helping Hadden Group keep their personal data up to date. Individuals should let Hadden Group know if data provided to Hadden Group changes, for example if an individual moves to a new house or changes his/her bank details.

Individuals may have access to the personal data of other individuals and of our customers and clients in the course of their employment, contract, volunteer period, internship or apprenticeship. Where this is the case, Hadden Group relies on individuals to help meet its data protection obligations to staff and to customers and clients.

Individuals who have access to personal data are required:

- to only access data that they have authority to access and only for authorised purposes;
- not to disclose data except to individuals (whether inside or outside the organisation) who have appropriate authorisation;

- to keep data secure (for example by complying with rules on access to premises, computer access, including password protection, and secure file storage and destruction);
- not to remove personal data, or devices containing or that can be used to access personal data, from the organisation's premises without adopting appropriate security measures (such as encryption or password protection) to secure the data and the device; and
- not to store personal data on local drives or on personal devices that are used for work purposes.

Further details about Hadden Group's security procedures can be found in its data security policy.

Failing to observe these requirements may amount to a disciplinary offence, which will be dealt with under the organisation's disciplinary procedure. Significant or deliberate breaches of this policy, such as accessing employee or customer data without authorisation or a legitimate reason to do so, may constitute gross misconduct and could lead to dismissal without notice.

9. Training

Hadden Group will provide training to all individuals about their data protection responsibilities as part of the induction process and at regular intervals thereafter.

Individuals whose roles require regular access to personal data, or who are responsible for implementing this policy or responding to subject access requests under this policy, will receive additional training to help them understand their duties and how to comply with them.
